LOUISA, LAWRENCE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, AUGUST 24, 1917.

M. F. CONLEY, Publisher.

FIFTY MEN PASS AND WILL SERVE

SECOND CALL IN THIS COUNTY FINDS FIFTY-FIT AND CLAIM- ING EXEMPTION.

In the list of 300 men examined on the last call in Lawrence the NEWS finds 50 who passed physically and did not claim exemption. This makes 89 out of the two calls, leaving the county's quota still short 25 men. The local board is now passing upon claims for exemption.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOL.

At Gallup Miss Sallie Gearhart and Mr. Don C. Belcher have an interesting school which meets four nights every week. Seventeen have been enrolled and all are doing good work. A man, his wife and three sons, some of whom are in the call to the army, are busy pupils.

The teachers, who are among the best in Lawrence-co., are enjoying the time spent with their new students and report rapid progress and great interest in the school.

Oil Reaches Record Price

The price of crude oil has reached the highest price ever known. In Kentucky the price is $2.50. The Pennsylvania price is $3.50.

The cost of supplies and labor is very high, making the expense of drilling about double what it formerly was. The price of oil is keeping the work going, however.

A well in new territory will be drilled near Wilbur town, by some people to whom J. N. Marcum sold a lot of leases. Other companies are being formed to drill in Lawrence. Work is active in Johnson, Martin, Floyd and Magoffin counties.

Wells are being completed regularly in the developed territory of Lawrence county.

The J. N. Marcum Oil company now has three wells on its property at Olympia and two more are being started. Thompson & Fox, of Huntington, have three good wells on an adjoining tract.

McDANIEL HILL.

There will be an ice cream festival at the McDaniel school house Saturday night, September 1, for the benefit of the school. Everybody is invited to come. GRACE DAMRON, Teacher.

RETURN TO LOUISA.

Mrs. Lucy Johns Caldwell and children, Anna Sue and John, returned Wednesday to their home on Lock-av. after spending the summer with relatives at Harold, Floyd-co.

MISS ROBINSON IMPROVING.

The condition of Miss Lillian Robinson, of Paintsville, who is suffering from injuries received by a fall from an automobile, is said to be somewhat improved. A trained nurse is in charge of the case.

MARRIED IN LITTLE ROCK.

A wedding of interest to Louisa relatives and friends was that of Mr. Jas. Holmes Meek and Miss Geraldine Jordan, which took place last Sunday, August 19, at the home of the bride in Little Rock, Ark. Mr. Meek is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mat Meek, of Little Rock, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Waldeck, of this city. He is studying for the ministry. His bride is a talented musician.

WOULD MAKE MUNITIONS OF SEIZED INTOXICANTS.

Huntington, W. Va., August 21.—So that some practical use may be made of the thousands of gallons of intoxicants which are being confiscated by State prohibition authorities, a proposal has been made that the liquor be redistilled and the reclaimed alcohol used in the manufacture of war munitions. Large quantities of intoxicants are daily being confiscated in West Virginia and poured into rivers or sewers.

ENLISTED IN REGULAR ARMY.

Two sets of brothers, Norman and Chas. Kelger, of Leadingham, Elliott county, and Hi and McClay Fraley, of Lick creek, Pike-co., were among those who recently enlisted in Ashland in the regular army. Others were Grover C. Boyd, Whitehouse, Wilburn Hall and John T. Meade, Louisa; Robert Ballard and Henry Wilbur, Van Lear.

SKULL CRUSHED WITH TOMBSTONE.

Hazard, Ky., August 22.—Seven persons, including two women, are in jail here charged with the robbery and murder Saturday night of John Baker, 30 years old. Baker's slayers lay in wait in a cemetery at the edge of town, held him up and robbed him of $40, cut his throat and beat his head to a pulp with a tombstone. One of the women the first arrested, is said to have told a story which led to the arrest of five men and another woman.

OLD LINEN IS DONATED.

The dining car department of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway has agreed to donate all old linen for use as bandages and surgical dressings for the troops of the allies in Europe.

COAL PRICES REDUCED BY THE PRESIDENT

KENTUCKY OPERATORS PERMIT- TED TO CHARGE $1.95 AND WEST VA. $2.00 AT MINE.

President Wilson issued a proclamation fixing the maximum price of coal at which operators may sell at the mouth of the mine. The Kentucky price is $1.95, and West Virginia $2.00. The next move will be to fix the price at which retailers may make on coal. This removes the large profits made by the coal men and will put some of the small operators out of business. Large plants will have a good margin of profit at these figures. There are other features involved in the situation which may bring a modification of the order.

DONT TURN HIM LOOSE.

Cattletown, Ky., August 20.—A man giving the name of W. H. McMillan and who claims to be from Tennessee, was arrested at Lockwood station, 10 miles south of this city, this afternoon. He was equipped, it is alleged, with a number of large sticks of dynamite, a clock and other paraphernalia as if prepared to execute damage to railroad property or coal mines, in which direction he is suspected of having been bound. Police here were notified of his presence at Lockwood and hurried to make the arrest. He made desperate efforts to escape. He refuses to explain his actions.

The case will be referred to Federal authorities unless he becomes communicative and renders satisfactory explanation to the local authorities.

MISS RAMEY RETURNS HOME.

Miss Lora Ramey, who has been teaching a music class here for some time, has gone to her home at East Point to rest and recuperate. She expects to go later to La Grange, Ill., for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Osborne, formerly of Louisa. While here Miss Ramey made many friends who regret her departure.

REV. HOLLISTER AT LOUISA.

Presiding Elder A. A. Hollister preached at the M. E. Church South Tuesday night and held the quarterly conference afterward. He made a report of the year's work in the Ashland district, showing considerable progress.

Put a Sign at Buchanan

It is due the strangers coming up Big Sandy by automobile that they be warned to not try to travel along the river between Buchanan and Louisa. There is a section or two that is almost impassable and absolutely dangerous. No work has been done on this road since the Blaine bridge washed out a few years ago. A new bridge was built two years ago, but nothing has been done on the road. We have heard of persons being advised to come that route by persons who know nothing about it. If some public spirited and kindhearted persons at Buchanan and other points down there will put up a warning sign it may save loss of life, and at least great inconvenience to strangers.

SPECIAL LECTURE.

On next Sunday morning, August 26, at 10:00 o'clock at the Hewlett Branch school house, Rev. L. M. Copley will discuss this subject, "Some Errors of Russellism and Some Other Isms." You are cordially invited to come and ask any question you like. Get off the train at Potter station.

DATE CHANGED FOR FAIR AT LOUISA

TO BE HELD THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 28, 29.

The dates of the Lawrence County Fair to be held at Louisa have been changed to September 27, 28 and 29, this being one week later than the dates originally decided upon. This is done because the Blaine people chose for their fair two days conflicting with the ones first selected. The Lawrence County Association officers say they have been hoping that the two fairs would be consolidated, but this was given up when a part of those interested in the other movement refused to do so. In order to avoid any conflict the change of date was made.

The Wayne county people are invited by the officials to participate in the fair at Louisa. Following is a list of the items on which premiums will be paid, except as stated. The premiums will be published later.

Let everybody help to make the fair a success.

Premiums are now being secured and will appear in next week's issue. Subscriptions are being received, and great interest taken toward making this the biggest fair ever held in Lawrence-co. This list is to inform the people what they are expected to bring, that there may be a fair, for of course without cattle, sheep, hogs, horses, and the woman's department of canned goods, sewing etc., there can be no fair. Whose fair is it? The answer, Yours! Every individual of Lawrence-co. owes it to himself, as well as to his county, to help make and to make the fair.

From the names appearing on the list as superintendents, if any are unable to serve, please notify Mr. Queen, secretary, at once. We hope, however, that there is not one who will not try to do his or her part, as each is well fitted for the place assigned him.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE HERE SEPT. 5th

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH TO ENTER- TAIN BIG GATHERING IN NEW BUILDING.

The annual session of the Western Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church South will be held in Louisa, beginning September 5 and ending the 10. About 175 ministers, delegates and connectional men will be present. Entertainment for all but about 20 of these has already been provided by the Louisa people and the others will be arranged for in ample time. The pastor, Rev. Foglesong, expresses himself as gratified at the cheerful and hospitable response made by the people of all churches here in this matter.

Bishop McCoy will preside. He comes here from the Illinois conference and will arrive on Tuesday. This will be the third time Louisa has entertained the Western Virginia Conference—1853, 1895 and 1917. In 1894 Louisa entertained Kentucky Conference of the M. E. Church.

The new church building will be ready for the occasion. The carpenters are near the end of their task and the decorators are putting on the finishing touches. The Pastor is one of the busiest men in the community, getting the many details worked out. He was the host of the conference two years ago and knows how to handle this big job. The list of preachers and those who will entertain them will be published next week.

TIN CANS FOR LAWRENCE COUNTY

BUSINESS MEN OF LOUISA PUR- CHASED LARGE SUPPLY TO SELL AT COST.

The supply of tin cans in the United States is very far below the demand and the counties that have failed to provide them will not be able to get cans. Fortunately, Lawrence-co. has been taken care of, through the kindness and enterprise of a few Louisa business men co-operating with Miss Davis, the Home Demonstration Agent. By arrangement with Dixon, Moore & Co., wholesale grocers, $1300.00 worth of cans were bought, paid for and stored in their warehouse several weeks ago. They are being sold at actual cost to the people of this county. It is purely a piece of public enterprise and patriotism on the part of these people to aid in preserving what is being grown this year. The bills are open to inspection.

The cost of cans is very high, but the canned goods are even higher in proportion. A few years ago the Louisa Canning company sold canned tomatoes at 65c per dozen. They now bring $1.50 per dozen. This gives the canner 75c for the contents of a dozen now, as against 39 cents when cans were cheap. So it is not good business to hesitate on account of the present price of cans. Preserve everything possible. The world needs it and you will be handsomely repaid.

Those wanting cans should not delay getting them. The supply will probably not be sufficient for the local demand.

SERGEANT McCLINTOCK'S OWN STORY

No. 6. Decorated For Bravery; Home and Uncle Sam.

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, D. C. M., 87th Overseas Batt., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

This is the concluding article of the series of six by Sergeant McClintock, an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery and invalided home. He has been promised a commission in our army. The first five installments told of the fighting in Belgium and on the Somme, where he was desperately wounded. This final installment describes his journey to the rear with twenty-two pieces of shrapnel in one leg and his meeting with the king in a London hospital.

I WAS taken from Pozieres to Albert in a Ford ambulance or, as the Tommies would say, a "tin Lizzie." The man who drove this vehicle would make a good chauffeur for an adding machine. Apparently he was counting the bumps in the road, for he didn't miss one of them. However, the trip was only a matter of seven miles, and I was in fair condition when they lifted me out and carried me to an operating table in the field dressing station.

A chaplain came along and murmured a little prayer in my ear. I imagine that would have made a man feel very solemn if he had thought there was a chance he was about to pass out, but I knew I merely had a leg pretty badly smashed up, and while the chaplain was praying I was wondering if they would have to cut it off. I figured, if so, this would handicap my dancing.

The first formality in a shrapnel case is the administration of an anti-tetanus inoculation, and when it is done you realize that they are sure trying to save your life. The doctor uses a horse syringe, and the injection leaves a lump on your chest as big as a baseball, which stays with you for forty-eight hours. After the injection a nurse fills out a diagnosis blank with a description of your wounds and a record of your name, age, regiment, regimental number, religion, parentage and previous history as far as she can discover it without asking questions which would be positively indecent. After all of that my wounds were given their first real dressing.

Immediately after this was done I was bundled into another ambulance and driven to Contay, where the C. C. S. (casualty clearing station) and rail head were located. In the ambulance with me were three other soldiers, an artillery officer and two privates of infantry. We were all ticketed off as shrapnel cases and probable recoveries, which latter detail is remarkable, since the most slightly injured of the four had twelve wounds, and there were sixty odd shell fragments or shrapnel balls collectively imbedded in us. The nurse had told me that I had about twenty wounds. Afterward her count proved conservative. More accurate and later returns showed twenty-two bullets and shell fragments were in my leg. They took these out and presented them to me. I have been giving them away for souvenirs.

We were fairly comfortable in the ambulance, and I especially had great relief from the fact that the nurse had strapped my leg in a sling attached to the top of the vehicle. We smoked cigarettes and chatted cheerfully, exchanging congratulations on having got "clean ones"—that is, wounds not probably fatal. The artillery officer told me he had been supporting our position that morning with one of the sacrifice batteries.

A sacrifice battery, I might explain, is one composed of field pieces which are emplaced between the front and support lines and which in case of an attack or counterattack are fired at point blank range. They call them sacrifice batteries because some of them are wiped out every day. This officer said our battalion that morning had been supported by an entire division of artillery and that on our front of 400 yards the eighteen pounders alone in a certain fire which lasted thirty-two minutes, had discharged 15,000 rounds of high explosive shells.

I was impressed by his statement, of course, but I told him that, while this was an astonishing lot of ammunition, it was even more surprising to have noticed at close range, as I did, the number of Germans they missed. Toward the end of our trip to Contay we were much exhausted and pretty badly shaken up. We were beginning also to realize we were by no means out of the woods surgically. Our wounds had merely been dressed. Each of us faced an extensive and serious operation. We arrived at Contay silent and pretty badly depressed. For twenty-four hours in the Contay casualty clearing station they did little except feed us and take our temperatures hourly. Then we were put into a hospital train for Rouen.

Germans Bomb Hospital Train.

Right here I would like to tell a little story about a hospital train leaving Contay for Rouen—not the one we were on, but one which had left a few days before. The train, when it was just ready to depart with a full quota of wounded men, was attacked by German aeroplanes from which bombs were dropped upon it. There is nothing apparently that makes the Germans so fearless and ferocious as the Red Cross emblem. On the top of each of the cars in this train there was a Red Cross big enough to be seen from miles in the air. The German aviators accepted them merely as excellent targets. Their bombs quickly knocked three or four cars from the rails and killed several of the helplessly wounded men. The rest of the patients, weak and nervous from recent shock and injury, some of them half delirious and nearly all of them absolutely helpless and in pain, were thrown into near panic.

Two of the nursing sisters in charge of the train were the coolest individuals present. They walked calmly up and down its length, urging the patients to remain quiet, directing the male attendants how to remove the wounded men safely from the wrecked cars and paying no attention whatever to the bombs which were still exploding near the train. I did not have the privilege of witnessing this scene myself, but I know that I have accurately described it, for the details were told in an official report when the king decorated the two sisters with the Royal Red Cross for valor in the face of the enemy.

The trip from Contay to Rouen was a nightmare—twenty-six hours traveling 150 miles on a train which was forever stopping and starting, its jerky and uncertain progress meaning to us just hours and hours of suffering. I do not know whether this part of the system for the removal of wounded has been improved now. Then, its inconveniences and imperfections must have been inevitable, for in every way afterward the most thoughtful and tender care was shown us. In the long rows of huts which compose the British general hospital at Rouen we found our selves in what seemed like paradise.

In the hut which constituted the special ward for leg wounds I was lifted from the stretcher on which I had traveled all the way from Pozieres into a comfortable bed with fresh, clean sheets, and instantly I found myself surrounded with quiet, trained, efficient care. I forgot the pain of my wounds and the dread of the coming operation when a tray of delicious food was placed beside my bed and a nurse prepared me for the enjoyment of it by bathing my face and hands with scented water.

On the following morning my leg was X rayed and photographed. I told the surgeon I thought the business of operating could very well be put off until I had had about three more square meals, but he couldn't see it that way. In the afternoon I got my first sickening dose of ether, and they took the first lot of iron out of me. I suppose these were just the surface deposits, for they only got five or six pieces. However, they continued systematically. I had five more operations, and every time I came out of the ether the row of bullets and shell scraps at the foot of my bed was a little longer. After the number had reached twenty-two they told me that perhaps there were a few more in there, but they thought they'd better let them stay.

My wounds had become septic, and it was necessary to give all attention to drainage and cure. It was about this time that everything for awhile seemed to become hazy and my memories got all queerly mixed up and confused. I recollect I conceived a violent dislike for a black dog that appeared from nowhere now and then and began chewing at my leg, and I believe I gave the nurse a severe talking to because she insisted on going to look on at the ball game when she ought to be sitting by to chase that dog away. And I was perfectly certain about her being at the ball game, because I saw her there when I was playing third base.

The Alarming Cablegram.

It was at this time (on Nov. 28, 1916, ten days after I had been wounded) that my father in Lexington received the following cablegram from the officer in charge of the Canadian records in England:

Sincerely regret to inform you that Sergeant Alexander McClintock is officially reported dangerously ill in No. 5 general hospital from gunshot wound in left thigh. Further particulars supplied when received.

It appears that during the time of my adventures with the black dog and the inattentive nurse my temperature had ascended to the stage when the doctors began to admit another method of treatment might have been successful. But I didn't pass out. The one thing I most regret about my close call is that my parents in Lexington were in unrelieved suspense about my condition until I myself sent them a cable from London on Dec. 15. After the first official message, seemingly prepared almost as a preface to the announcement of my demise, my father received no news of me whatever. And, as I didn't know that the official message had gone, I cabled nothing to him until I was feeling fairly chipper again. You can't have wars, though, without these little misunderstandings.

If it were possible I should say something here which would be fitting and adequate about the Englishwomen who nursed the 2,500 wounded men in general hospital No. 5 at Rouen, but that power isn't given me. All I can do is to fall back upon our most profound American expression of respect and say that my hat is off to them. One nurse in the ward in which I lay had been on her feet for fifty-six hours, with hardly time even to eat. She finally fainted from exhaustion, was carried out of the ward and was back again in four hours, assisting at an operation. And the doctors were doing their bit, too, in living up to the obligations which they considered to be theirs. An operating room was in every ward, with five tables in each. After the fight on the Somme, in which I was wounded, not a table was vacant any hour in the twenty-four for days at a time. Outside of each room was a long line of stretchers containing patients next awaiting surgical attention. And in all that stress I did not hear one word of complaint from the surgeons who stood hour after hour, using their skill and training for the petty pay of English army medical officers.

On Dec. 5 I was told I was well enough to be sent to England, and on the next day I went on a hospital train from Rouen to Havre. Here I was placed on a hospital ship which every medical officer in our army ought to have a chance to inspect. Nothing ingenuitously could contrive for convenience and comfort was missing. Patients were sent below decks in elevators and then placed in swinging cradles which hung level no matter what the ship's motion might be. As soon as I had been made comfortable in my particular cradle I was given a box which had engraved upon it: "Presented with the compliments of the Union Castle Line. May you have a speedy and good recovery." The box contained cigarettes, tobacco and a pipe.

When the ship docked at Southampton, after a run of eight hours across channel, each patient was asked what part of the British Isles he would like to be taken to for the period of his convalescence. I requested to be taken to London, where, I thought, there was the best chance of my seeing Americans who might know me. Say, I sure made a good guess! I didn't know many Americans, but I didn't need to know them. They found me and made themselves acquainted. They brought things, and then they went out to get more they had forgotten to bring the first trip. The second day, after I had been installed on a cot in the King George hospital, in London, I sent 1,500 cigarettes back to the boys of our battalion in France out of my surplus stock. If I had undertaken to eat and drink and smoke all the things that were brought to me by Americans just because I was an American I'd be back in that hospital now only getting fairly started on the job. It's some country when you need it.

Wounded Get Great Welcome.

The wounded soldier getting back to England doesn't have a chance to imagine that his services are not appreciated. The welcome he receives begins at the railroad station. All traffic is stopped by the bobbies to give the ambulances a clear way leaving the station. The people stand in crowds, the men with their hats off, while the ambulances pass. Women rush out and throw flowers to the wounded men. Sometimes there is a cheer, but usually only silence and words of sympathy.

The King George hospital was built to be a government printing office and was nearing completion when the war broke out. It has been made a paradise for convalescent men. The bareness and the sick suggestion and characteristic smell, so to speak, of the average hospital are unknown here. There are soft lights and comfortable beds and pretty women going about as visitors. The stage beauties and comedians come to entertain us. The food is delicious, and the chief thought of every one seems to be to show the inmates what a comfortable and cheery thing it is to be ill among a lot of real friends. I was there from December until February, and my recollections of the stay are so pleasant that sometimes I wish I was back.

"I thank you," he said, "for myself and my people for your services."

On the Friday before Christmas there was a concert in our ward. Among the artists who entertained us were Fay Compton, Gertrude Elliott (sister of Maxine Elliott), George Roble and other stars of the London stage. After our protracted stay in the trenches and our long absence from all the civilized forms of amusement the affair seemed to us the most wonderful show ever given. And in some ways it was. For instance, in the most entertaining of dramatic exhibitions did you ever see the lady artists go around and reward enthusiastic applause with kisses? Well, that's what we got. And I am proud to say that it was Miss Compton who conferred this honor upon me.

At about 3 o'clock on that afternoon, when we were all having a good time, one of the orderlies threw open the door of the ward and announced in a loud voice that his majesty the king was coming in. We could not have been more surprised if some one had thrown in a M.H.A. bomb. Almost immediately the king walked in, accompanied by a number of aids. They were all in service uniforms, the king having little in the style of his uniform to distinguish him from the others. He walked around, presenting each patient with a copy of "Queen Mary's Gift Book," an artistic little volume with pictures and short stories by the most famous of English artists and writers. When he neared my bed he turned to one of the nurses and inquired:

"Is this the one?" The nurse nodded. He came and sat at the side of the bed and shook hands with me. He asked as to what part of the United States I had come from, how I had got my wounds and what the nature of them were, how I was getting along and what I particularly wished done for me. I answered his questions and said that everything I could possibly wish for had already been done for me.

Thanked by King and Decorated For Bravery.

"I thank you," he said, "for myself and my people for your services. Our gratitude cannot be great enough toward men who have served as you have."

He spoke in a very low voice and with no assumption of royal dignity. There was nothing in the least thrilling about the incident, but there was much apparent sincerity in the few words.

After he had gone one of the nurses asked me what he had said.

"Oh," I said, "George asked me what I thought about the way the war was being conducted, and I said I'd drop in and talk it over with him as soon as I was well enough to be up."

There happened one of the great disappointments of my life. She didn't see the joke. She was English. She gasped and glared at me, and I think she went out and reported that I was delirious again.

Really, I wasn't much impressed by the English king. He seemed a pleasant, tired little man with a great burden to bear and not much of an idea about how to bear it. He struck me as an individual who would conscientiously do his best in any situation, but would never do or say anything with the slightest suspicion of a punch to it. A few days after his visit to the hospital I saw in the Official London Gazette that I had been awarded the distinguished conduct medal. Official letters from the Canadian headquarters amplified this information, and a notice from the British war office informed me that the medal awaited me there. I was told the king knew that the medal had been awarded to me when he spoke to me in the hospital. Despite glowing reports in the Kentucky press he didn't pin it on me. Probably he didn't have it with him, or perhaps he didn't consider it good form to hang a D. C. M. on a suit of striped presentation pajamas with a prevailing tone of baby blue.

While I was in the King George hospital I witnessed one of the most wonderful examples of courage and pluck I have ever seen. A young Scot only nineteen years old, McAuley by name, had had the greater part of his face blown away. The surgeons had patched him up in some fashion, but he was horribly disfigured. He was the brightest, merriest man in the ward, always joking and never depressed. His own terrible misfortune was merely the topic for humorous comment with him. He seemed to get positive amusement out of the fact that the surgeons were always sending for him to do something more with his face. One day he was going into the operating room and a fellow patient asked him what the new operation was to be.

"Oh," he said, "I'm going to have a cabbage put on in place of a head. It'll grow better than the one I have now."

Once in a fortnight he would manage to get leave to absent himself from the hospital for an hour or two. He never came back alone. It took a couple of men to bring him in. On the next morning he would say:

"Well, it was my birthday. A man must have a few drinks on his birthday."

I was discharged from the hospital in the middle of February and sent to a comfortable place at Hastings, Sussex, where I lived until my furlough papers came through. I had a fine time in London at the theaters and clubs pending my departure for home. When my furlough had arrived I went to Buxton, Derbyshire, where the Canadian discharge depot was located, and was provided with transportation to Montreal. I came back to America on the Canadian Pacific Royal Mail steamer Metagama, and the trip was without incident of any sort. We lay for a time in the Mersey, awaiting word that our convoy was ready to see us out of the danger zone, and a destroyer escorted us 400 miles on our way.

I was informed before my departure that a commission as lieutenant in the Canadian forces awaited my return from furlough, and I had every intention of going back to accept it, but since I got to America things have happened. Now it's the army of Uncle Sam for mine. I've written these stories to show what we are up against. It's going to be a tough game and a bloody one and a sorrowful one for many, but it's up to us to save the issue where it's mostly right on one side and all wrong on the other—and I'm glad we're in. I'm not willing to quit soldiering now, but I will be when we get through with this. Because when we finish up with all this there won't be any necessity for soldiering. The world will be free of war for a long, long time, and a God's mercy that.

THE END.

The State of Westsylvania.

The "province and government of Westsylvania" was a proposal made by the settlers in the southwest of Pennsylvania and the adjacent territory for the creation of a new state. It originated in connection with the troubles between Virginia and Pennsylvania, and the scheme was brought forward early in July, 1776. A description of the proposed government defines the bounds as "beginning at the eastern branch of the Ohio opposite the mouth of the Scioto and running thence in a direct line to the Ohio river, thence with the top of the said mountains to the northern limits of the purchase made from the Indians in 1768 at the treaty of Fort Stanwix, thence with the said limits to the Allegheny or Ohio river and then down the said river as purchased from the said Indians at the aforesaid treaty of Fort Stanwix at the beginning." A call for a convention to organize the government was issued, but a memorial of the Virginia committee of West Augusta county to the lower house of assembly led to the abandonment of the plan.—Philadelphia Press.

London's Crystal Palace.

Crystal palace was originally built in Hyde park for the great exhibition of 1851, being afterward removed to its present site and re-erected. At the first state opening of the palace by Queen Victoria it was urged that the usual artillery salute should not be fired, the reason given being that the concussion would shiver the glass roof and the company assembled below, including her majesty, would be cut into mincemeat. Dire were the predictions of the scaremongers when the design for the palace was made public. The first gale, they said, would inevitably wreck it, while the heat engendered by the sun pouring its rays upon the domed glass roof would be so terrific that no human being could withstand it. Consequently if they escaped an avalanche of glass they would be roasted to death inside the case.

THE LATEST

FRIDAY.

Maj. Gen. H. C. Hale yesterday was assigned to command Camp Taylor when the drafted forces from Kentucky and Indiana are assembled here. Maj. Gen. W. P. Sage was assigned to Iftationsburg, Miss., where Kentucky and Indiana National Guardsmen will be trained. In all the War Department assigned thirty-two Major Generals to command the National Guard and national army divisions of the war armies. On the list are all of the present regular departmental commanders, including Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, ranking officer of the service, who now are called upon for duty in the field and probably at the front in France. Both of the National Guard Major Generals nominated Tuesday by the President—John F. O'Ryan, of New York, and Charles M. Clement, of Pennsylvania—are placed at the heads of divisions in their branch, with some regular army Brigadiers under them.

Again the great Anglo-French war machine has struck the Germans in Flanders and again it has been successful. The village of Lanckemack and other important positions were taken Thursday and more than 1,800 prisoners already have been counted. The latest blow in the Ypres area was on a front of nine miles, and only on the extreme right were the allied forces unable to make progress. The Germans resisted stubbornly, suffering heavy losses, but on the greater part of the front they were forced to leave valuable positions in the possession of the Allies. Throughout Thursday bitter fighting continued. On the left the French occupied the ground between the Yser Canal and Martlevaart and then drove the Germans from the important bridgehead of Dreigachten.

Important provisions of the War Tax Bill were tentatively approved by the Senate late yesterday. Liquor sections levying $140,000,000 additional taxes on distilled and rectified spirits and including clauses effective during the war providing for a prohibitory tax of $50 per hundred pounds upon their further manufacture from foodstuffs were among those approved. Increase of revenues from beer and other malt and fermented liquors of $45,000,000, as compared with $37,500,000 under the House Bill, was also approved.

England's supply of wheat at present is nearly one-fourth larger than at this time last year, and with reasonable economy there is no chance of starvation. England, Premier Lloyd George declared in the House of Commons yesterday. He declared Germany was now not able to hold her own and that the submarine menace was being met and overcome.

Secretary Baker has warned the Mayors of cities near army training camps or cantonments that they will be held responsible for maintenance of wholesome moral conditions in their communities. If the desired results cannot be obtained in any other way, the Secretary said in a letter to the Mayors, he will not hesitate to move camps to other sites.

Officials in Washington see, in the growing activities of Industrial Workers of the World leaders in the Northwest, a grave menace to industries, the continuation of which at high speed is vital to prosecution of the war.

American loans to the Allies now total $1,916,400,000. Italy yesterday obtained $40,000,000 and Belgium $5,900,000.

SATURDAY.

The irregular counter attacks having failed with severe losses, the Germans in the Ypres area of the western front have not resumed attempts to recapture the ground lost to the Anglo-French troops on Thursday. On the northern wing of the Ypres front the French, after repulsing heavy German counter attacks, on Friday made further gains near the Steenbeke River. In addition to their capture of more than 1,800 prisoners, the allied forces captured twenty-four guns from the Germans. While admitting an allied gain along the Ypres Canal and near Bixchoote, where the French advanced, Berlin claims officially that most of the British attacks were repulsed and that Langemarck is still in German hands. This claim of the German general staff is officially denied in London, which says that the British held not only Langemarck, but also ground beyond the village. Between Loos and Lens the Canadians are plugging away toward the capture of the last-named place. They have consolidated and made secure their recent gains and have made further progress west of Lens. The number of prisoners taken here by the Canadians now totals 1,120.

Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, in a speech at Jacksonville, Ill., yesterday declared that the supreme test of the American business man was now here and they must show which is stronger, with them—patriotism or profits. He deplored the raising of prices to unreasonable levels and declared that business must proceed along normal lines with fair profits.

Apparatus for creating smoke screens for protection from submarines is to be provided soon to every American merchantman entering the war zone. A Department of Commerce circular announces that the step is regarded as of great importance for the protection of the United States merchant vessels.

Predictions that advocates of the pension system would oppose the Government's plan for insuring the lives of soldiers and sailors were made at the hearing on the Insurance Bill before the House Commerce Committee yesterday by Chairman Adamson.

Northeastern Ohio dairymen are throwing away milk because of disagreement over prices with Pittsburgh, Pa., buyers. Gov. Cox has been asked to suggest some way of preventing the waste.

The Food Administration's wheat buying corporation soon will open general offices in New York. Branch offices will be established in wheat buying centers.

SUNDAY.

Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria continues to counter attack the positions on the Lens front taken by the Canadians, and some bitter hand-to-hand fighting has resulted. The French have advanced again east of the Steenbeke River. Berlin admits the loss of Langemarck to the British. On the Aisne attacks directed by the German Crown Prince were repulsed. Aviators of both sides have been very active. Entente flyers, destroying thirty German airplanes and damaging twenty others. In Rumania the Austro-Germans are still attacking, while fighting on the Caucasian front is reported.

All soldiers' barracks, officers' quarters and lavatories at Camp Taylor will be completed next Saturday and turned over to the Government. The work will have taken exactly nine weeks and the local camp will be the first of the sixteen great training camps to be completed. Some stables, hospital buildings and recreation buildings are yet to be completed. Government Quartermasters already are buying huge quantities of supplies for the soldiers who will be stationed at the camp.

Definite action to reduce prices of coal to the consumer and to bring about better distribution will be taken early this week. This was learned following a conference between President Wilson and the Federal Trade Commission, at which estimates of coal production costs and recommendations for dealing with the distribution were considered. Officials who have followed the situation closely believe the President will direct the requisitioning of all coal mined.

In a statement given out by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo the War Insurance Bill is characterized as one of the most significant and progressive measures introduced in Congress since the declaration of war. Its provisions offer the most liberal protection for families of American soldiers and sailors extended by any Government, it is declared.

A total of $2,550 toward paying the expenses of a patriotic week, beginning September 25, during which a large number of speakers will tour the State in an effort to arouse the people to a sense of responsibility in the war, was subscribed at the closing session of the State Council of Defense in Louisville.

Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, in a formal statement last night, urged Americans to reduce the consumption of flour one pound per person per week. He declared unless this was done America and its allies faced a 400,000,000 bushel wheat deficit.

Authorization to issue bonds and certificates totaling $11,538,945,460 at one time is provided in the new War Budget Bill, embodying recommendations of Secretary McAdoo, which was sent from the printer to the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Mexican lighthouse tenders La Patria and La Azteca, en route from Chicago to Mexico, were destroyed by a series of explosions at St. Louis last night. Twenty men were hurt, three seriously. Two men may die.

The Senate, by a vote of 38 to 22, yesterday struck out of the War Tax Bill the clause for a 1-cent tax on bank checks. A provision for a 1-cent tax on parcel post packages costing 25 cents or over was passed.

DOUBLY PROVEN

LOUISA READERS CAN NO LONGER DOUBT THE EVIDENCE.

This Louisa citizen testified long ago. Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. Mrs. R. J. Lewis, Franklin St., Louisa, says: "For a long time I suffered from annoying kidney ailments. I experimented with a good many remedies, but got no benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills, however, gave me freedom from those terrible spells of backache. They strengthened my kidneys and bladder and cured all the other symptoms of kidney complaint." (Statement given January 27, 1908.)

On December 4, 1915, Mrs. Lewis said: "Ever since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint my kidneys have been strong and have acted regularly." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lewis has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

REV. GAUGH RETURNS.

The Rev. W. A. Gaugh will be in his pulpit in the Baptist church, this city, the fourth Sunday in this month, August 26, both morning and evening. He has been visiting relatives in Tennessee a few weeks.

Mrs. Carrie S. Adams was down from Prestonsburg the first of the week.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Lawrence, Ky., to be held at Louisa on September 8, 1917, to fill the position of rural carrier at Buchanan, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other postoffices in the above-mentioned county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a postoffice in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from Ashland or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

For involving the whole world in war and for the atrocities committed, Germany should be not only conquered, but divided and parcelled out to Belgium, France, Rumania, Italy, and other outraged countries.

The Germans and Austrians have lost considerable ground and a great many men in the operations of the last few days. They have met defeat at all points. The Canadians have been in the thickest of the fight and have won glorious victories.

There is such a thing as a country being too free. This fact is being demonstrated in the United States every day. The tolerance shown traitors and enemies and aliens entirely too great. Every man who shows by his presence here that he regards this country as a good place should be forced to get in line with the government. Nobody who is disloyal should be permitted to enjoy our protection and prosperity and the many blessings of a free country. Such an ingrate is a curse to any country.

The peace proposal made by the Pope will not be accepted by the Allies, because it does not contemplate abolishing the militarism of Germany. This is what the rest of the world is fighting for. If Germany could now get a settlement along the line of the Pope's terms she would take a breathing space and again attempt to accomplish the ambitions of the brutal and infamous Kaiser. Peace on the Pope's terms would be a victory for Germany. The Austrian King is a Catholic and the proposition is said to have come from him.

"We can not sign a peace," declares General von Liebert of Germany to the citizens of Rathenow, Prussia, "before we have the Panzer coast, a colonial empire and maritime bases. Should we not realize this now we must prepare to work for it after the war in view of the next war."

That is just what the world fears. Germany is looking forward to the next war. Any peace that does not give Prussianism all it wants will be but temporary, a mere truce until a repaired saber is again drawn from its scabbard. And Prussianism will regard a premature peace in such a light whether it comes through ecclesiastical channels or those more secular.

The world knows that increase of Germany's imperial appetite will grow by what it feeds on. What would the future hold for the United States if von Liebert's dream of a colonial empire and a system of maritime bases were realized?—Times Star.

EAST POINT.

Mrs. Garland Rice of Paintsville and her sister, Miss Grace Auxier of Dawson, Neb., were visiting relatives here Saturday and the old home place of their fathers in the Blockhouse bottom. This bottom contains, perhaps the oldest homestead on Sandy, being built in 1817 and now a century old.

They left this place for a visit at Prestonsburg.

Mr. Sam Baggett and Miss Oma Hager were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hager Friday. Miss Oma is a sweet girl, loved by all who know her.

Pastor T. J. Conrey of the M. E. Church at this place, accompanied by his wife and little daughter, left here Monday for a few days visit with Mrs. Conrey's relatives and to attend conference which convenes at Maysville August 29. Pastor Conrey is a good man and many hope to see him returned to this charge.

A memorial meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Chambers near Run creek junction, Logan county, W. Va., on September 16. Mr. Chambers having passed into the great beyond only a few months ago at the advanced age of ninety. His wife died more than a year ago.

Mrs. Chambers was a native Big Sandy woman, Margaret Auxier, before marriage, and daughter of Samuel Auxier, deceased. All friends and relatives who can go are invited to attend this memorial meeting which will be conducted by Rev. H. K. Moore of the M. E. Church South.

A camp meeting is going on at Van Lear under the auspices of the Church of God. A large tent has been erected in which to hold the services and accommodations have been provided for all who wish to attend. The meeting will hold over Sunday.

Miss Lora Ramey has returned from Louisa.

Miss Mary Luck is on the sick list. Lige and Dick Auxier are getting out a fine lot of cross ties.

A goodly number of men are employed on the railroad near this place. Everybody seems to have a job of some kind.

J. C. B. Auxier has rented a building of Len Spradlin and resumed merchandising at Auxier.

Miss Moore of Berea is visiting Mrs. Frank Ramey.

John F. Auxier and wife are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. B. Auxier, this week. Mr. Auxier has been in training at Ft. Benjamin Harrison and has been appointed Lieutenant. He will go to Louisville soon. Mrs. Emma Luck is expected home Wednesday from Cincinnati.

LOWMANVILLE.

There are several cases of typhoid at this place. There has been one death, from the disease, the wife of Franklin Murray. She died last week. The revival meeting conducted by the Griffith brothers, closed Sunday night. There were 26 conversions. 20 persons were baptized.

Jay Hatfield and wife of Circleville, Ohio, are visiting relatives here.

Robert Hatfield was at Louisa last Saturday for the purpose of bringing about a consideration of the Georges Creek National Farm Loan Association with the Lawrence County National Farm Loan Association. The Georges Creek Association now ceases to exist as a separate and independent organization, all its interest being transferred to the Lawrence County Association. JAKE.

ULYSSES.

A series of meetings closed last Sunday night at Chestnut Grove, which has been in progress for two weeks. It was a union service in which ministers of different denominations and also those of the Holiness faith were engaged. The number converted and claimed were about 20. After morning services Sunday, ministers and congregation assembled at the water where a union baptizing was witnessed by the large congregation of people. The Rev. M. J. Allen, however, has the distinction of being the only minister present to baptize an aunt, a daughter and both of his parents before leaving the water. There certainly was a wonderful manifestation of power and spiritual uplift during this series of meetings which we hope will produce much and lasting good.

Mr. Zona Castle, formerly of Catlettsburg, has moved to his farm at this place.

Mrs. Grant Bentley and children of Webbville, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison.

Mrs. N. A. George has returned home after visiting her son, Nathan George and family, for a few days at Van Lear. The little daughter, Beatrice, that arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan George on August 2, is growing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mead have gone to their farm near Lucasville, O., for a visit to friends.

Scott Boyd of Catlettsburg, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. Alice Boyd of this place.

The recent arrivals are a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Compton, and a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Rinnie Chandler.

Several persons here and in adjoining localities have leased their land to the agents for an oil company and the company is putting up derricks and preparing to drill a test well on A. J. Austin's land.

We understand that three wells are to be put down in this locality. We have been informed that the Standard Oil Co. has taken the leases here.

Corn crops are needing rain badly at this time.

A large acreage is planted in corn and with rain in due time the prospects for a good yield is fine. Since crops were laid by quite a number of our citizens have gone off to public works, some to the coal fields, some to the lumber camps and some to the carpenter force.

John George of Henrietta has recently sold his farm at that place to Elijah B. Brown of same place, and has

Telephone Courtesy

The people who get the greatest amount of good out of their telephone are those who talk over it as though face to face.

Courtesy smooths out difficulties and promotes the promptest possible connections.

The operators of the BELL System are trained to be patient and polite under all circumstances, but they will do better work if they meet with patience and politeness on the part of the telephone users.

The fact that you cannot see the operator or the other party should not cause you to overlook this. The best results come through the practice of mutual courtesy.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Preston Fetter, of Paintsville, who are now visiting in the east expect on their return here to locate in Ashland. They are making every effort to find a home and are trying to plan for one of the largest and most beautiful residences in this city in which to reside. They come to Ashland thinking it will be a most desirable and convenient place to live both from a business standpoint and for the pleasure of their children, John Mayo and little sister, Miss Margaret Mayo. Ashland people will be delighted to have them in their midst as they are both agreeable and pleasant and will be an advantage to any community.—Ashland Independent.

SERMON BY REV. DARLINGTON.

Dr. U. V. W. Darlington, President of Morris Harvey College at Barboursville, and one of the ablest preachers in the conference, preached at Louisa last Sunday in the basement of the new M. E. Church South. He had a close call on missing the engagement, due to the fact that he drove here by automobile and was directed to come along the river on the Kentucky side from Catlettsburg to Louisa. He reached here just in time to go into the pulpit. The congregation was inspired and deeply moved by the sermon, and as it closed many persons went forward without invitation and an old-fashioned Methodist hand-shaking was the result. Dr. Darlington is making a great success of Morris Harvey College. He is a most efficient man in any branch of religious or uplift work. He is always welcome in Louisa.

"SPLASHING" OUT COAL ON THE OHIO RIVER.

Maysville, Ky., August 12.—Twelve thousand tons of coal in tow of the steamers Robert H. Gillham and D. T. Have been built and actually delivered to retail buyers since August 1, 1915. These figures—320,817—represent the actual number of cars manufactured by us since August 1st, 1915, and delivered by our agents to retail buyers. This unusual fall and winter demand for FORD cars makes it necessary for us to confine the distribution of cars only to those agents who have orders for immediate delivery to retail customers, rather than to permit any agent to stock cars in anticipation of later spring sales. We are issuing this notice to intending buyers that they may protect themselves against delay or disappointment in securing FORD cars. If, therefore, you are planning to purchase a FORD car, we advise you to place your order and take delivery now.

IMMEDIATE ORDERS WILL HAVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

Delay in buying at this time may cause you to wait several months. Enter your order to-day for immediate delivery with our authorized FORD agent listed below and don't be disappointed later on.

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN

Cincinnati authority tells how to dry up a corn or callous so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before says this Cincinnati authority because a few drops of freezeone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callous, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callous loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain. A small bottle of freezeone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callous. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezeone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It is fine stuff and it's like a charm every time.

A Blank Marriage Certificate

It Turned Up a Valid One After Twenty Years

By F. A. Mitchel

I. Every day the readers of fiction demand more and more stories illustrating what is happening among them. Improbable happenings are taboos. Nevertheless stories written many years ago, based on what was then a more or less common occurrence, are still read. The novel "Jane Eyre," by Charlotte Bronte, is one of these favorites.

This story is based on a mock marriage. A century ago British swells seemed to have no conscience in preying upon women. Mock marriages were by no means uncommon. But today we never hear of a mock marriage. This is due largely to a change in the times. Formerly formal certificates were required in marriage. Now any man and woman can acknowledge before witnesses that they are man and wife and the law recognizes the marriage.

During the early part of the nineteenth century there was a noted case of mock marriage between a British nobleman and an American girl. In those days America was a new country, and Englishmen who came over here were prone to look down on Americans. Nevertheless there were descendants, in the eastern states especially, of the younger sons of foreign noblemen, who settled on the American coast when the country was being occupied from abroad, disposing the Indians.

Edith Van Wyck, whose progenitor, Hugobert Van Wyck, came from Holland, where Philip II. of Spain was persecuting the Protestants, was a comely young woman, in excellent standing socially in New York. Lord John Turnbull, a son of the Duke of Averton, visited America, met Miss Van Wyck and fell in love with her. He did not consider a marriage with one who had neither fortune nor title, but, desiring to possess her, resorted to a device which was common at the time—that is, he married her, prearranging that she should not be able to prove herself a legal wife.

In those days the elite of New York lived on the southern extremity of Manhattan Island, the Van Wycks' home fronting on the Battery. Young Lord John courted Edith in the space surrounding the fort that gave the name to its location, for it was called the Battery from the guns mounted on it. He was a charming man in everything except morality, and the young lady fell an easy victim to his wiles.

When they were married the groom handed the officiating clergyman a pen, which he dipped into a gold ink horn that bore the crest of his family, saying that for generations marriage certificates of members of his family had been written with ink from this horn. No one thought to ask why the young lord had brought such a relic to America. There was not the slightest doubt that he was acting in good faith. Lord John remained in America three months after his marriage, when he returned to England without his wife. He told her that there would be great objection on the part of his family to his marriage with an American commoner and he must prepare them for the event. Unless he could win his mother over to his side and through her influence his father the latter, who owned a large, unentailed fortune, would disinherit him.

Edith consented to his departing without her, he promising to return to her as soon as he obtained his father's consent to receive her. He set sail in a British ship, and his young wife tearfully watched the vessel from her window as it sailed down the bay.

A month was required to make a voyage to England in those days, and when another month had been added to the first Edith began to look for a letter from her husband. A month more passed and no letter came. Several more passed and still no word from her husband. At last the poor woman began to realize that she was deserted. She believed that her husband had failed to win his father's consent to his marriage and had concluded not to announce it; but, being married to him, she hoped that at some future day she would be acknowledged as his wife.

Meanwhile the Duke of Averton died, and his son, John Turnbull, inherited the title. Then, since his record seemed all right, he was considered a great catch by young women of the nobility. One day Edith received a shock that blighted her life. A London paper came to America in which there was an announcement of the marriage of her husband to Lady Gladys Armstrong, daughter of the Duke of Milford. That her husband had deserted her was a blow; that he had committed bigamy was crushing.

Her family, not being willing to submit to such treatment, took up the case, intending to prosecute Lord Averton for bigamy. The attorney they employed called for the marriage certificate. Edith took it out of a desk in which it had lain since the marriage and before turning it over to her father looked at it. What was her astonishment, her horror, to see that the paper on which it had been written was a blank!

The poor woman then knew that she had been tricked. She delayed turning the paper over or saying anything about it till she had time to think. A little boy had been born to her, and she dreaded the fact of his standing being known to the world. After deliberation she put the paper back where it had been before removal and refused to produce it, saying that she would not consent to a prosecution of Lord John. She resumed her maiden name and brought up her son as Francis Van Wyck.

II.

Twenty years later a young man stepped into a solicitor's office in London and requested him to demand of the Duke of Averton £20,000. When asked his name and why he made such a demand the stranger declined to present to give either. The solicitor declined to take the case, but when the client said that the amount was demanded for the support of a woman the duke had wronged many years before he consented.

Averton winced at the demand, but put on a bold face. He pronounced the case one of blackmail and declined to consider it. When the matter was announced in the newspapers he and his family gave out that the duke, as Lord John, had shown some attention to an American girl he had met in the United States. After a lapse of years she had concluded to claim that he had married her. There was nothing in it.

The case, notwithstanding this statement, excited a good deal of attention in London society, not because that society looked down with scorn upon the betrayal of women by their aristocracy—for in those days the British people regarded the peccadilloes of the nobility with far more leniency than today—but because there was a fear that the family occupying the title and the property might be dispossessed through some unfortunate marriage of the duke when he was sowing his wild oats. When the case came to be tried quite a number of the British aristocracy were present in court.

"We are prepared to prove," said the plaintiff's solicitor, "that about twenty-two years ago, when the Duke of Averton was in America, he married Edith Van Wyck of New York and lived with her as her husband several months, when he deserted her. The couple were married by the Rev. Thomas MacLaren in St. Mark's church, on a street called the Bowery. The officiating clergyman is now dead, but we will furnish a certificate that he was rector of the church at the time of the wedding. We shall also furnish the certificate of marriage written by said MacLaren."

The attorney held up a bit of blank paper. The defendant, who was in court, looked at it with evident solicitude.

Stepping to a table, the lawyer placed the paper under a microscope and said to the judge:

"Your honor, I desire you to examine this paper and give a ruling on it. Is it or is it not a valid certificate of marriage?"

The judge stepped down from the bench and critically examined the paper by means of the microscope. He saw indentations made with a pen constituting a certificate of marriage between Lord John Turnbull and Edith Van Wyck and signed by Thomas MacLaren. After the examination the judge returned to the bench. The lawyer continued:

"We claim that when the marriage certificate was made out the clergyman was handed an ink horn and a pen by the groom, who stated that marriage certificates had for hundreds of years been written in ink from the said ink horn. The clergyman therefore made out the certificate with ink taken from said ink horn. We claim that the plaintiff had filed the ink horn with ink that after a short period became invisible."

"I have also a certificate from a prominent London scientist that iodine combined with starch, called iodide of starch, will produce an ink that will in a short time entirely fade away. We charge the Duke of Averton at that time with procuring the writing of the certificate with iodide of starch, which will fade and cannot be reproduced. I therefore ask your honor to accept these pen indentations as a certificate of marriage between the defendant and the plaintiff."

While this address was being spoken Averton turned ghastly pale.

The judge took time for consideration, then ruled that the certificate was a valid document.

Each member of the jury was given an opportunity to examine the paper through a microscope. The foreman read aloud a certificate given by the officiating clergyman that he had married Edith Van Wyck and John Turnbull in the city of New York on a certain date. The reading was effected by the pen indentations on the paper. After all had seen it the judge instructed the jury to accept it as valid testimony.

That settled the case in favor of Edith Van Wyck, Duchess of Averton. She was adjudged such by the court, which made the duke a bigamist and his London family illegitimate. The young man who prosecuted the case was the son of the defendant. As soon as he had won a verdict in his mother's favor he entered upon negotiations for the payment by the duke of an annuity to his mother, and the case was thus settled. The Duke of Averton was never brought to trial for bigamy owing to his influence with the British cabinet.

His son returned to America, where he continued to live under the name of Van Wyck and became an eminent jurist in New York. His mother after her vindication returned to her social position and became a leader. She died during the war days of 1863.

Since then there has been a notable change in the depredations of the young bloods upon the weaker sex. Mock marriages are no longer perpetrated.

HUDNALL, WEST VA.

Sunday school at our place is progressing nicely with a large crowd. Rev. C. T. Brookshire and Rev. G. L. Gillispie of Charleston held a revival at this place last week, with good success.

VIRGINIA TRAITORS GET FIVE YEARS IN PRISON.

Big Stone Gap, Va., Aug. 17.—J. W. Phipps and W. V. McCoy, Virginia mountaineers, were found guilty by a jury in Federal Court here today on a indictment for "recruiting men to destroy arms and ammunition of the United States Government." The penalty was fixed at five years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Other indictments against the men charging interference with the selective draft law were dismissed.

Both prisoners, in a statement to the court, said that three men, strangers in the community, induced them to attempt to organize and arm mountaineers in this section on a promise of a large sum of money. Government officials are confident these men were German agents.

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui.

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui. By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial.

Did You Ever Pay a Bill Twice

The one who has not had to pay more than one bill the second time is the exception and not the rule. Few people when paying a bill ask for a receipt and if they do they fail to keep the receipt. Did you ever have a dispute over a payment? Unpleasant is it not? Do you wish the circumstance to occur again? There is one sure way to escape it. Pay your bills with checks. If you received no interest on your idle money it would only show good sense and good wisdom to have it in a BANK. Transact your business in a business way and pay your bills by checks. Your check when returned to you makes an indisputable receipt. A bank account makes you systematic and encourages you to save part of your income. Many a man has become rich because he became interested in watching his bank balance, and was thus led to find ways to increase it. Start a BANK ACCOUNT with US and WE will help YOU make it larger. WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutriment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

If Baby Could Talk It Might Say This.

Do not kiss me on the mouth.
Do not let the sun shine in my eyes nor the wind fill them with dust.

Do not sneeze or cough in my face, for I may take cold, and that would be bad for me.

Do not expose me to whooping cough or measles or other catching diseases or I may get sick and die.

Do not pick me up by the arms. Be careful how you handle me and lay me down.

Do not give me candy or other things which are not good for me.

Do not give me a dirty pacifier to suck, nor allow me to suck my thumb, for it will spoil the shape of my mouth.

Do not rock me to sleep nor teach me other bad habits.

Do not take me to a motion picture show nor keep me up nights, for it robs me of my sleep and makes me cross.

Do not give me wine, beer or whiskey, coffee or tea, for I want to keep well.

Do not jolt me or trot me on your knee when I cry.

I want the right things to eat and I want my meals on time.

I want some pure cold water to drink between meals, for I get very thirsty.

I want a bath every day and plenty of clean clothes.

I want my own bed, a comfortable room with the windows open and plenty of time for sleep, for I must have it in order to grow.

I want to be taken out of doors every day for the fresh air.

I want mother to love me and always be gentle with me.

I want to be a good baby.

Man has done wonders since he came before the public. He has navigated the ocean, he has penetrated the mysteries of the starry heavens, he has harnessed the lightning and made it pull street cars and light the great cities of the world. But he can't find a spool of red thread in his wife's work basket; he can't discover her pocket in a dress hanging in a closet; he can't hang out clothes and get them on the right side up. He cannot hold clothespins in his mouth while he is doing it, either. He cannot be polite to somebody he hates. He cannot sit in a rocking chair without banging the rockers into the baseboards. He cannot put the tidy on the sofa pillow right side out. He cannot sew on a button. In short, he cannot do a hundred things that women do almost instinctively.

The real pleasures of life are not to be bought. Amusement is for sale; but joy comes without price and without bargaining. There are no figures set upon happiness; it springs up in the pathway like a flower the seed of which has been sown from some other world. The quiet, deep joys of life, benison like, fall from heaven upon our hearts. None can command them, none can corner them. You may purchase assistance and interest, but affection and love come unsought, unsolicited, unbought. What wealth have you greater, more worth to you than the tender kindness, the sympathy, the spirit of self-sacrifice that goes out to you from other lives? These assets are not on our office ledgers, but on the great ledgers of life from which our final balances are struck they are writ large.

How great a beauty and blessing it is to hold the royal gifts of the soul so that they shall be music to some and fragrance to others, and life to all! Some women cling to their homes like the honeysuckle over the door, yet, like it, sweeten all the region with the subtle fragrance of their goodness.

Boys and girls, what is it you can never catch, though you chase after it on the wings of the wind? You can never catch the word that has once left your lips. Once spoken, it is out of your mouth; do your best you can never recall it. Therefore take care what you say. Never speak an unkind word, an impure word or a profane word.

Love is the great home-maker, that makes even the drudgery of house-keeping a pleasure, and home life a foretaste of the bliss of heaven. One cannot get too much love into one's home-making, but easily too little.

HELLIER NEWS

(By HARRY COHEN)

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT.

A community, like an individual, must grow better by a closer and more intimate knowledge of the things immediately environing it. It must grow thru a bigger, broader view of the obligations of life. A community fails to grow when the average of its citizens fails to grasp the spirit of progress; so a community is not bettered by better conditions environing a few homes, but by better conditions environing the many—the average homes.

And even when a community has better homes, it hasn't all—it must have better churches, better schools (Hellier's urgent need is a graded school), and the extension of the educational thought in many directions before it reaches the high point of community development and efficient community spirit. It must have lectures, libraries, sermons, amusements, sports and all the things in an educational way that make men and women bigger and better and help them to throw off the cares of life and enjoy its blessings.

The individual in a community who is to encourage better schools, who is to encourage better roads, who refuses to support the chautauqua, who takes no interest in the demonstrations on the farm, who fails to attend church and support the preacher, who neglects to encourage the teacher, who forgets to subscribe and pay for the local newspaper, who fails to show his appreciation of the better horses, better cattle, better hogs, he who knocks the home town and the local merchant—who does any or all of these things lacks community spirit.

Community spirit is the nation's best asset when applied in the practical way and, like religion, it becomes better the more one works at it. It is for seven-day living and not for Sabbath day living.

C & O. POETRY

By L. B. Allen.
I've read Harry Cohen's
Words and verses
I hope the trains are going
Now faster than a horse.
It is our earnest aim to serve
The good folks of the valley.
Occasionally a little swerve
Will cause an awful raly.

We thought we did the proper thing,
To serve the country best.
We knew that to us would bring
Complaint, censure, strife, protest.

But, we railroad folks must stand all this,
And like a man we take our dose,
For every slap we give a kiss,
And keep on loving hard and close.

NOTE:—Mr. Allen is the general superintendent of the C. & O. Ry. Co.
